The journey of our noble Colonel began in 2011, in search of the perfect bow tie.

Founder Rémi Duboquet had a specific vision that steered away from the norm, and after looking high and low with little success decided to create his own. Rémi's project became a creative obsession tended to with passion and stubborn persistence; one that was far too good to keep to himself. He and his partner Clémence decided it was time to share these hand-crafted accessories with the world, and hence Le Colonel was born.

Le Colonel continued its trajectory with the addition of Clémence's brother, Valentin, and now boasts boutiques in London, Paris, Lille & Lyon. Each store has its own unique flair and provides the perfect setting for Le Colonel's indisputably charming accessories, each one handmade in its French atelier.

From historical Liberty London motifs to rare Italian silks, intriguing textiles are first and foremost what inspire Le Colonel. This has led to a range of over 300 different fabrics in the atelier, with bespoke accessories forming part of Le Colonel's unique offering.

Our raison d'être is to produce unrivalled products at a reasonable price. We pay particular attention when sourcing materials, and only select fabrics of unquestionable quality. This means that when you choose Le Colonel, you invest in pieces that can be worn again and again.

We are proud to have been working with local suppliers since day one, and to have helped contribute to the revival of the textile production in the north of France. We strive to further reduce our carbon footprint by limiting production, adjusting weekly according to sales, and using every off-cut of fabric where possible.

Our wonderful team at Le Colonel are all motivated by the same thing: to contribute to a small business that is in its very nature, responsible. 'Make something beautiful, make it well, make it with love' - Rémi
